A GOOD NOMINATION.

The nomination of William F. Sutphen as a candidate for Mayor by the Republicans is a nomination that meets with general approval and praise. Activity in the line of making Mr. Sutphen's nomination assured was not confined to Republicans alone during the primary campaign. Citizens whose sole solicitude is good government, and who are not bound by party ties when that issue is at stake, worked hard in behalf of the election of delegates to the Town Republican Convention who were known to favor Mr. Sutphen's nomination.

The general verdict appears to be that a good nomination has been made, and one on which all elements in the Republican party can harmoniously unite. Mr. Sutphen's nomination will tend to stimulate Republicans to greater activity on election day, and remove the depression naturally following an exciting primary campaign.

During his long residence here Mr. Sutphen has always taken an interest in the public affairs of the town, but it was not until the recent formation of the Board of Trade that he became prominent in the civic life. He was an active spirit in the forming of that organization, and as vice-president was an able assistant to Thomas McGowan, the first president of the board, and when the latter retired he welcomed the choice of Mr. Sutphen as his successor. It was as president of the Board of Trade that general attention was directed towards Mr. Sutphen as a valuable man for the responsibilities of local government. He was not disposed to be satisfied with the nominal honor of being president of the Board of Trade, but was ambitious to make the board a useful factor in the civic life by the accomplishment of results.

To bring that about Mr. Sutphen devoted much personal attention to all matters of a general public character brought before the board for action. The good impression he made as president of the Board of Trade led many good citizens to turn toward him when the mayoralty question came up. The approaching election is going to result in a change of administration. With a man like Mr. Sutphen at the head of the administration good results will follow the change.

Mr. Sutphen is a man who, if elected mayor, will give close personal attention to the details of local government, and the fall will not be too much to expect the case where too much reliance is placed upon subordinate officials in local government. The citizens of Bloomfield have before them a good opportunity to show their interest in public affairs and express themselves in favor of good government by going to the polls on November 6 and voting for William F. Sutphen for mayor, and insure his election by a large majority.

DOWNFALL OF A BOSS.

The reputation by the people of the Green regime in Town Council affairs is one of the features of the political campaign. Every local official who has been under the spell of the Green hypnotic influence has been knocked down by the voting public. The popular decision has been that Green's predominant influence in public matters was not a healthy influence, and was not exercised in the interest of the public good. How Green got the power to manipulate some of his colleagues like pieces of putty is something that puzzles many people. In the case of Councilman Chabot not much wonder is expressed, and if Chabot was a candidate for re-election now he would go the way of Green and the rest of the gang. But by what occult influence Green can control such men as George Fisher and William Haysburn is a mystery.

Never in the history of local government has such bossism of one man predominated as has been apparent in the present Council. In some instances members of the Council have stoutly maintained that they would not vote for some of the Green measures, but when the critical time arrived they were all found in the Green bag. Business ability, not social influence can be the cause. It is not political influence, for the very people who took Mr. Green up as a candidate and defended him against the assaults of his opponents did not support him for re-nomination.

If neither business, social nor political influence can explain Green's ability to use the majority of his colleagues in the Council as putty, the question still remains, What influence is it? If good causes cannot be found to explain psychological phenomena, casuistic speculations turn to the unsteady side of the case, and draw conclusions that are not at all creditable to the subjects of discussion. The manner in which the voters threw Green down on primary day seems to indicate that the conclusion reached was that as no good cause could be found to explain Green's ability to swing the majority of his colleagues in line in favor of his scheme of spending public money, there must be some cause that was detrimental to the public good, and the best thing to do as a public benefit was to get rid of Green.

VOTE THE STRAIGHT TICKET.

The Republican party has presented an excellent set of nominees for local offices to the voters of this town, and there is no good reason why every Republican voter and every advocate of good and honest government should not vote the straight Republican ticket on Tuesday, November 6. If the candidates named on the Republican ticket for local offices are elected, some of the features of local government of late years that have been a cause of criticism and censure will be removed.

For the first time in many years the Democratic party has put a local ticket in the field. It is a Democratic ticket, and the Democratic leaders who made up the ticket made vote catching a first consideration in forming the ticket. The Democrats went looking into the Republican scrap basket for material to make up the ticket. The Democratic ticket is by no means a reform ticket, and the ticket made up of rejected material can be looked upon as a good government ticket. It is not understood that the Democrats are making any pretensions that they are at all interested in good government this year. The sole desire is to win now and let events shape themselves afterward.

If the Democratic ticket wins Jesse O. Green will continue the dominant factor in local affairs, for he holds the same hypnotic influence over the Democratic candidate for mayor that he exercises over Messrs. Chabot, Fisher and others, and some of Mr. Green's close allies now holding office as Republicans will be more pleased with the success of the Democratic ticket than they will with that of the Republican ticket. The Republicans have repudiated Green and his methods, policies and followers. The Democrats propose to restate him in power and fill the local offices with his devotees.

The Republican local ticket is clean out in its nominees, straight forward in its policies, and every sincere advocate of good government will vote it straight without scratch or patch.

PEANUT POLITICS.

When organized labor permits itself to become the plaything of politicians, it suffers in the esteem and respect of the general public. Some local politicians like Mr. Green and Mr. Chabot, neither of whom has any regard for organized labor, are endeavoring to use the labor vote as a club to browbeat the opposition to money-spending schemes. Mr. Green's schemes of lavish expenditure of public moneys has been repeatedly opposed, and in the debates that have ensued he has been badly worsted, and several times Mr. Chabot, in a fit of excitement, has jumped to the defense of his friend Green by a dramatic outburst of loyalty, somewhat as follows: "Mr. Green is all right, I believe in him, and am going to stand by him."

Not being able to cope with the opposition in the presentation of the merits of a proposition, the scheme was apparently put up to kill the opposition politically. Arrangements were made to have some labor agitators appear before the Council and demand that a certain line of work be given out without competition to members of a certain organization. The demagogues who planned the scheme knew that no honest and honorable member of the Council would vote for any such unbusinesslike proposition. The cards have been well played, and Mr. Green and other town officials who have been hurt by the demand for a square day's work for the town are chuckling over the success of their diabolical scheme.

But only part of the game has been played, and the final result may prove a disappointment to Mr. Green and his clique. Mr. Green is not a friend of labor, either personally or sentimentally. His aversion to work has been satirized in song. If any citizen of this community has ever been vituperative in denunciation of organized labor it is Councilman Chabot. He has fairly trothed when expressing his contempt for labor organizations, and in the face of his past record as a vehement opponent of labor unions, Mr. Chabot hypocritically takes part in a scheme he does not believe in. Members of labor organizations in this town are not fools. They will readily see through the scheme of Green and Chabot, and there is no doubt that they will have a higher appreciation than ever before for those who took a stand against the matter.

Organized labor is a self-respecting body, and cannot be used by demagogic peanut politicians like Green and Chabot. It was Superintendent Powers of the water department who suggested to Green and Chabot the use that could be made of labor agitators in pushing obnoxious members of the Council, and the rejoicing with which the water superintendent and superintendent of public works hailed the success of Green and Chabot's scheme shows that Councilmen who are desirous of doing right by the public are not in favor with the ring.

FIRST CHURCH GUILD

Will Open its Season of Entertainment Tuesday Evening, October 23d—Royal Welsh Male Choir will sing—Other Church Notes.

The opening entertainment for this season's Guild course will begin Tuesday evening, October 23d, and will be a rare treat, as the entertainers will be the Royal Welsh Male Choir from Treorchy, South Wales, who are making their first American tour. They will arrive in New York about October 12th, and one of their first concerts will be in Bloomfield. Former Ambassador to England, Hon. Joseph H. Choate, after hearing them, was enthusiastic in their praise. He wrote to them: "I am charmed by the excellence of your singing. Come to America, where you will create a great sensation."

They are the holders of the world's record for prizes and are the winners of four National Elstedtrophies. This choir is composed of twenty male voices and will be as led by Miss Alicia Maude Cove, one of the leading soprano soloists of Wales. They have appeared at Windsor Castle before the late Queen by special command and Her Majesty, the late Queen Victoria, said: "What beautiful voices they have and how delicately they are trained." No one in Bloomfield should fail to hear them.

Next Wednesday evening the annual public service of the Bloomfield Evangelical Union will be held in the Westminster Presbyterian Church at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Wm. H. Morgan, D.D., pastor of Central M. E. Church, Newark, will address the meeting. Subject: "The Church and the Working People."

The subject for the sermon at the 10.30 A. M. service of the Church of the Ascension will be "Obedience and Disobedience," and at 8 P. M. "Virgin Birth of Our Lord."

The Bloomfield Auxiliary of the Newark Orphan Asylum met at the home of Mrs. Sarah D. Stubbart in Broad street Wednesday afternoon and elected these officers for the year: President, Mrs. Franklin Feltz; vice-president, Mrs. Frank B. Stone; secretary, Mrs. John Ballard; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah D. Stubbart. The old board of managers was re-elected.

The State Convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union will be held at Millville next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The Essex County delegates will leave on the 8.30 A. M. train, Market street station, Pennsylvania Railroad, and will stop in Philadelphia, visit the United States Mint, take the 12 o'clock train from there, arriving at Millville at 1.44 P. M., in time for the first session of the convention.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church nominated these officers Tuesday night for the annual meeting to be held next week: President, Herbert Stone; vice-president, Cecil Cook; treasurer, C. W. Hedden; recording secretary, Jennie Baldwin; corresponding secretary, Cora Kimball; executive committee—Juliet Maxfield, Horace Smith and Wm. Maxfield. Chairman of committees: Prayer, E. Beach Smith; lookout, Ernest Stidston; social, Lucille Maxfield; music, Edith Baldwin; missionary, George Bliss; Sunday school, Ada Elmhorn; literature, Thos. Tidback; flower, Rosetta Johnstone.

Library Notes.

Of special interest to all students of civics is Dr. Howe's book on "The City," recently added to the library. It traces the evils and corruption of cities to causes economic and industrial.

From this we turn to "The United States in the Twentieth Century," by Pierre Leroy-Beaulieu, a presentation by a French writer of facts concerning the population, industries and problems of our country.

It is just a year since "The Upton Letters" came to us from the graceful pen of Arthur C. Benson, a fellow of Magdalen College, Cambridge. With equal charm he writes on eighteen distinct subjects, embracing religion, education and literature, under the title "From a College Window."

When a book is full of happy paragraphs which demand to be shared with someone, that book should be read aloud. Such a quotable narrative is "The Pass," by Stewart Edward White, telling of a trip across the Sierras by a man and his wife, two dogs and a guide. It is full of big mountains, roaring streams, camp fires and sturdy rangers who "could pass examinations in the Arabic education of a man—to ride, shoot, and speak the truth." One enjoys the antics of Pepper and Tuxedo, the irrepressible, who never caught any woodchucks, "but accomplished some notable excavations," and never was more delightful comrades on the trail than "Billy," with her impressive five feet, and never-failing courage and good spirits. The full-page illustrations are good, and attractive little sketches pertinent to the reading matter fill the corners of the wide margins.

Realty Notes.

Morris Snyder has purchased a lot from the Harvey estate in Oonger street, in the rear of his Glenwood avenue building.

One lot has been sold out of the plot of property corner of Watessing and Berkeley avenues. The property was only put on the market last week.

John Jager has sold one of his Charles street houses to Patrick Higgins of Orange street.

Negotiations are in progress for the sale of a piece of upper Broad street property for business purposes.

THE SWISS ARMY.

Always Ready For War Service at a Moment's Notice.

The total population of Switzerland is rather less than half the population of London alone, yet the plucky little republic can throw into the field at a moment's notice four completely equipped and trained army corps to Germany and France's twenty and England's nominal eight. In proportion to her population as compared with Switzerland, England should possess fifty.

Every able-bodied Swiss is, ipso facto, a member of the army from eighteen to forty-four, yet never does one hear the least complaint made by a Swiss of whatever social class at the trifling sacrifice of time that his military duties demand. To watch a Swiss battalion on its way to maneuvers in camp or on its return is to watch as contented, serviceable and cheerful a lot of men as one could wish to meet.

The only serious tax upon the time of the soldiers is the first two months of hard training as a recruit. Afterward sixteen days in camp every other year is all that is required of him. Between while he shoots with his comrades—very little village has his shooting range—because he loves it, and devotes a certain amount of time voluntarily to the physical exercises he is taught at school to keep himself fit. On first joining he is carefully examined as regards his suitability for this or that branch of the service and is drafted into that for which he is best fitted, and he invariably takes as great a pride in his regiment, battery or squadron as could any voluntarily enlisted man in our smartest corps at home.

The Swiss army comprises 100 battalions of infantry and twenty-four squadrons of cavalry, with the necessary ordnance and departmental corps, while the artillery includes forty-eight field batteries, ten batteries of position and two excellent mountain batteries.—Pall Mall Gazette.

First Thermometer.

The first thermometer was made in 1621 by a Dutch physicist named Cornelius Van Drebbell and consisted of a tube filled with air, closed at its upper end and dipping at its other extremity, which was open, in a bottle of nitric acid diluted with water. As the temperature rose or fell the air in the tube increased or grew less in volume and consequently the liquid descended or rose. This instrument is now known as an air thermometer, but as its measurements were based on no fixed principle it was of little use.

No Relative of His.

Duncan, aged two and a half, had been naughty. To punish him his mother tied him in his high chair and kept him there for one hour, by the clock. His father got home before the hour was quite up and asked the youngster why he was tied up.

"Father," replied Duncan, pointing an accusing finger at his mother, "I'm completely surprised at that lady."
